

I think this business of allowing one corporation to own many radio stations or multiple media outlets is a very bad idea. Currently, if one disagrees with the administration publically, there is a good chance they will pay a price. A good example of this is Clear Channel Communications and the Dixie Chicks. The underlying message here is; our way or the highway...scary stuff, goodbye free speech.